He indulges in life's simple joys when he's not behind the camera, for example, finding peace in hiking through the mountains and going on adventures with his bike. When it comes to his taste in music, variety is the word to think about, and of course, with a special fondness for the band Stone Sour. Being a true Italian, savouring a good pizza is among his greatest pleasures.

Experiencing Piero's work is an inspiring journey. His photos possess a unique power to draw you in, making you feel the moments as if you were part of them; where his talent lies in creating images that leave a lasting impression, touching you deeply and staying with you long after.
